A ROYAL FEAST

GLENDALE'S CHURCHES HONOR
THE BOYS WHO WENT FORTH AT THE COUNTRY'S CALL

Less than 100 of the boys responded to the invitation of the ladies of the Glendale churches to partake of a turkey dinner in the First M. E. Church last evening, but those who were present certainly appreciated the welcome given them and the "feed." The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers and compactly grouped so as to bring the diners close together. The way that turkey disappeared was a caution, and the waitresses, a bevy of Glendale's charming maids and matrons, flitted here and there seeing that every plate was filled, while the benevolent cooks beamed approval from the kitchen. After the wants of the inner man had been thoroughly satisfied Capt. Dru is a country not a thoroughfare; last Tuesday night's meeting and as chairman of the committee there appointed, urged the attendance of all the boys at the meeting next Tuesday night, in the Elks' Social Hall, to perfect a local organization. Capt. A. T. Weisenheimer then acted as toastmaster and called on various men present for brief talks. Prof. White spoke for the boys, as one of them, and urged organization. Rev. Cole referred to the banners of welcome strung above some of our streets and said that the feast they had just enjoyed was that sentiment put into practical action. He heartily endorsed the plan of organization. Lieut. Wilson, a guest from Highland Park, told of the work in that line already accomplished by the boys of his home community and said they had affiliated with the American Service League. Dr. Willisford next made one of his characteristic rapid-fire talks, telling of experiences on the battle front and lauding the work of the American soldier, the best fighter in the world, while not detracting one whit from the courage and tenacity of the French, Italian and English soldiers. A rising vote of thanks was then given the ladies and the Ministerial Association for the banquet, and immediately a husky sailor sprang on to a chair and led college yells for Glendale, the girls and the eats.

Among the guests present were the Davis sisters, who, with cornet and melophone, had entertained the boys in camps all over the land, and they sounded the assembly call at the head of the stairs, summoning the boys in.

MORE ONE-MAN CARS

GLENDALE-MONTROSE RAILWAY
NOW HAS THREE WHICH WILL SOON BE OPERATING

The Glendale-Montrose Railway received yesterday another one-man car and expects a third to arrive today. These cars which, it is claimed, represent the last word in efficiency and economy, are coming very rapidly into use not only because the expense of operation is reduced, likewise the consumption of power because the cars weigh less, but also by reason of safety devices and the fact that the car being under the control of one man instead of two there is no division of responsibility.

While there are doors at each end of the car at the right of the motorman, the rear door is kept locked except when released by the motorman, and passengers enter and leave the car from the front where they are under the observation of the motorman, reducing to the minimum the probability of accident to patrons in boarding or alighting from the car.

POST AND CORPS MEETING

Covers were laid for more than one hundred at the mid-day dinner served by the ladies of the W. R. C. of N. P. Banks Post Friday noon. The Post had its usual morning session and the dinner was followed by a program somewhat different from that usually provided. Rev. R. W. Mottern exhibited stereopticon views of the Battle of Gettysburg, which were greatly enjoyed, and his daughter, Elizabeth Mottern, sang "The Battle of Gettysburg." Following this program the Corps held its regular session.

AN IMPROVEMENT

Mr. J. F. Harden of the Glendale Furniture Store, 606-S E. Broadway, has taken unto himself a partner, Mr. F. C. Merriek, and the new firm will add a complete line of new furniture and supplies. The east partition of the present store will be removed, leaving them two large store-rooms connected by an archway 12 feet wide. Success to the new firm.

QUIET SCHOOL ELECTION

MRS. BROWN ON CITY SCHOOL BOARD—MR. PULLIAM AND MRS. GARDINER FOR H. S.

The school election passed off very quietly but very satisfactorily Friday at the High School where the vote was taken. Messrs. J. E. Henderson and Maurice Hartman and Miss Cora Hickman were election officers, the polls opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m.

One hundred and twenty-two ballots were cast. Mrs. Nettie Brown, candidate for Grammar School Board of Trustees received 122 votes, Mrs. Blanche E. Gardiner and Claud O. Pulliam, candidates for the High School Board, receiving 114 and 111 votes respectively.

In view of the fact that there was no contest to stimulate interest, all the candidates being most acceptable, the vote was considered excellent.

All election arrangements were smoothly executed, and automobiles were available to bring to the polls voters who could not get there otherwise. This arrangement was in charge of the Federation of P. T. Associations which appointed a committee of such size that a member was available for each hour in the day to be at the polls and answer telephone calls for autos, each committee woman being relieved at the end of the hour of service by her successor. It was some system and very creditable to the organization.

GREAT AMERICAN WHISTLER "THE BIRD MAN"

Mr. Charles Bowman Hutchins, "The Bird Man," will speak on "The Birds of the Bible" at the evening service of the First Methodist Church Sunday night. He knows the birds and whistles their songs so nearly like themselves that few can detect the difference. He is also a crayon artist and draws the birds while he tells their story and whistles their songs.

Mr. Hutchins ranks among the greatest of American whistlers. During the war he was one of the large number of American artists who gave his talent freely to the government for the entertainment of the soldiers in camp. Thousands of the American boys at home and over sea have heard his charming interpretations of bird life.

Mr. Hutchins and the choir will have the preliminary service, after which the pastor will speak on the topic, "The Spirit of God Descending Like a Dove." The window illustrating the descent of the spirit will be illuminated electrically from the outside.

At the morning service a ballot vote of the congregation will be taken on the League of Nations.

Both morning and evening sermons are part of Mr. Scott's series of "Sermons in Glass."

DEATH OF ARNOLD FOSTER BARHAM

Arnold Foster Barham, of 921 East Wilson avenue, died suddenly Tuesday, March 25, 1919, after but six hours' illness following a stroke of apoplexy. He was born in England, but had resided in California for the past four years. He and Mrs. Barham came to Glendale to make a home in which to spend their declining years and spent many happy hours and much thought on its improvement. Last December Mrs. Barham died of influenza. It was a heavy blow to her husband, the more so because his daughter, Nell Shipman, the actress, was far away in Canada and unable to come to him. She is still in Calgary working with a picture company and her father will be buried without her presence. Funeral services will be held at the Seaverns parlors today (Saturday) at 2 o'clock, and interment will be made in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

OPEN HOUSE MEETING

BOY SCOUTS OF TROPICO TROOP OF GLENDALE ENTERTAIN THEIR FRIENDS

An open house meeting of Tropico Troop of Glendale Boy Scouts was held in the scout room of the Magnolia School Friday evening at which 23 members of the troop and 23 guests were present. The regular business meeting and scout program was followed by demonstrations in knot-tying, first aid, signaling or wig-wagging, pyramid building, fire and drum work and bugling. Robert Searl is Senior Patrol Leader of the troop and Prof. E. E. Harwood, Scout Master. The troop is planning a demonstration meeting in a month or two at which refreshments will be served.

CAMPAIGN FOR PRO-LABOR CANDIDATES

RETURN OF PRESIDENT GOMPERS OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR WILL OPEN MOVEMENT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 29.—The return of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor from Europe early in April will mark the opening of an intense campaign to elect pro-labor candidates to public office, according to Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

The campaign will be non-partisan. Its immediate purpose is carrying the labor reconstruction program to Congress. Morrison emphasized that the plan does not involve the formation of a labor party, but does involve the application of an acid test to all candidates of every party as to whether they support the labor program.

The federation program will include the advancement of unionism; elimination of unemployment by maintaining high wages and thus stimulating production by increasing the purchasing power of the workmen; the eight-hour day; exclusion of all immigration for two years; development of educational institutions; the education of illiterates; elimination of employers' liability companies operated for profit; elimination of private employment agencies, and many other provisions.

VON BERNSTORFF AGAIN PLOTS

CONSPIRES WITH GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER TO WIN
DIPLOMATIC VICTORY OVER ALLIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Berlin, March 29.—Radical leaders today declared that the talk in Berlin of Germany's refusing to sign the peace treaty and throwing the country into Bolshevism is a scheme on the part of the foreign minister and Count Von Bernstorff to win a diplomatic victory from the Allies.

The foreign minister and Von Bernstorff hope to impress the Entente governments with the seriousness of the German situation and then bring a split between the Allied nations on the policy to be followed if Germany refuses to sign.

It is claimed that certain Allied nations will oppose continuing the blockade of Germany, fearing the spread of Bolshevism, while others will insist on a firm peace.

ARMIES RUNNING HITHER AND YON

HUNGARY AND BALKAN STATES IN MILITARY FERMENT AND ALLIES ARE THREATENED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

London, March 29.—Conflicting dispatches today indicated that history's greatest military tangle exists in and around Hungary. The armies of several and mixed nationalities are scurrying in every direction, sometimes stopping to fight as they pass, and sometimes not.

The Italians and Czecho-Slovaks have cut the Buda Pesth-Vienna railway at two separate points. A Russian Bolshevik army is sweeping westward, threatening to invade Austria. A Roumanian army is entering Galicia via the same route as the Russians. Another Roumanian army is marching toward Buda Pesth across the Maros River; another is driving eastward into Ukrania to Bessarabia; a fourth Roumanian army is retreating southwest across the Pruth River to the Bessarabian forces. The Bulgarians are mobilizing along the Servian front. The Poles are occupying Lemberg and have started a strike in sympathy with the Hungarian soviet government. Ukranian and Bessarabian forces are joining to attack the Allies northwest of Odessa.

ARMY PLANS ARE COMPLETED

WILL BE DIVIDED INTO 21 DIVISIONS WITH A TOTAL
STRENGTH OF 500,000 MEN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, March 29.—Chief of Staff General March announced today that plans for the reorganization of the American army into twenty-one divisions, with a total strength of 500,000 men, have been completed. The present divisional organizations, with new enlisted personnel, will be used. The divisions will retain the numerical designations of those which participated in the fighting in Europe, largely for historical reasons.

The plan calls for the stationing of the Fourth Infantry Division permanently at Camp Kearny and the 91st Infantry Division at Camp Lewis.

General March denied that the troops now being enlisted for foreign service will be used against the Bolsheviks.

NEED RESPONSIBLE WORKERS

FRISCO SHIPYARDS WILL CLOSE WITHIN A WEEK UNLESS THEY CAN GET MORE DEPENDABLE LABOR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

San Francisco, March 29.—The secretary of the California Federal Trades Council announced today that the San Francisco shipyards will close within a week unless they can secure more dependable labor.

UNISON SINGING

PATHE DEMONSTRATION AND
CONCERT BY MUSIC COMPANY
A GREAT SUCCESS

An exceedingly appreciative audience numbering about 50 souls gathered at the salesrooms of the Glendale Music Company, 106 East Broadway, to enjoy a free concert Friday evening.

The program as published in the Evening News yesterday and the day before was given in its entirety, the Pathe records independent of the artists being an accordion duet, a male quartette number, a joyous ragtime, and—as a climax—an absolutely unique and marvelous record of the departure from New York of a troop ship for France in which not less than one thousand voices are recorded. The listener hears as though on the spot the sharp commands of the guard at the gang plank to "Stand back there! Stop crowding!" the galloping of horses, the near and far cheering, the bands playing, the shouts of the soldiers, the good-bye calls as the ship leaves the dock.

The work of Miss Ruth Bowers, soprano, who sung in unison with the vocal solo records inspired the greatest enthusiasm. During one number, "The Swiss Echo Song," lights were turned out and it was found to be impossible to determine which was the living voice and which the record. Excellent work was also done by Miss Olive Reed, violinist, as an accompanist of the records and Miss Bowers.

At the close of the program the statement was made that a series of these concerts will be given by the Glendale Music Company which will be announced from time to time.

DEATH OF ORRIN H. MARTIN

Orrin H. Martin, who has been a resident of Glendale for the past seven years, passed away this morning, March 29th, at the age of 86 years. He is survived by a son, Alfred W. Martin, of 135 South Pacific avenue; a daughter, Mrs. Addie B. Lovell, of 415 North Central avenue, at whose home he died, and six grandchildren. He came to Glendale from his home in Coaticook, Province of Quebec, Canada, where the remains will be interred. Funeral services will be held in the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Company Tuesday, April 1st, at 10:30 a. m.

CHAPTER A. H. OF P. E. O.

Members of Chapter A. H. of the P. E. O. were delightfully entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. J. Herbert Smith on North Brand boulevard, about twenty-two members and guests enjoying the luncheon and program which followed it. Travels through Colombia in South America were described in entertaining papers read by Mrs. Amelia Wattles and Miss Dorothy Hobbs, and vocal solos by Miss Evangeline Huntley were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. A. L. Bryant and Miss Charlotte Castle were guests of the chapter.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment given at Hurtt's Hall last evening was a marked success in its every feature, musically, socially, and in a literary way. The deepest interest was manifested by the large audience from the opening number of the program to the end.

The tableau arranged by Mme. Schindler was greeted with especial interest and was another evidence of her remarkable talent.

The vocal solo of Miss Gladys Alexander of Hollywood was enjoyed greatly. Judging from the rendering of Cadman's "At Dawning," Miss Alexander's future in music is assured.

The song by Mrs. Moore, soprano, was a pleasing finish to a well-rendered program.

The painting made especially for auctioning, sold for $26.

The attendance at the entertainment was 119 and at the dance following 150. It was a great success.

ANOTHER SOLDIER HOME

Irwin C. Scott of the 62nd Infantry arrived in Glendale yesterday to join his parents, Marion Scott and wife, 131 N. Everett. He was discharged at Camp Funston and went at once to the old home near Agra, Kansas, hoping to take up work on the old farm, but was disappointed, his father having already rented the place. So he came on to Glendale, visiting San Francisco on the way.

Two High School teachers and several students are quarantined on account of influenza, but none is reported dangerously ill.

BIG CONTEST TODAY

COMPETITIVE MILITARY DRILL
AND TRACK MEET ON OCCIDENTAL FIELD

Today, Saturday, will be strenuous for the High School cadets and athletes, for Glendale is to be represented at an inter-school competitive military drill between selected companies from the various high schools of this locality at 11 o'clock on the Occidental athletic field.

In the afternoon on the same field there will be a track meet of schools of the Central League. In the try-out meet last Tuesday Pasadena joined Franklin, Glendale and South Pasadena High and won, as she naturally would, but Glendale defeated South Pasadena and Franklin High. The teams will be matched today according to their respective sizes and Glendale's record is such it is believed she will make a creditable showing especially in relay work in which Glendale's team beat even Pasadena. A special prize is offered for this work which is in a class by itself, and it is believed our boys have more than a chance to capture it.

Of course, there will be a pennant for the school that wins the highest number of points. As a school proposition this will be the big league event of the year and will end the track season. There may be a chance later for contests between individual representatives.

Try-outs of tennis players are now on for a place on the school team. School games will begin very soon.

Debating

Prof. W. D. Root received Friday the exact question for the debate of the Southwestern League April 4th, viz.: Resolved, That Congress at its next session should enact a law embodying the principle of suspending immigration for a period of four years, as stated in the Burnett bill. The affirmative in each case will be debated by the home team.

Shop Accomplishments

The foundry equipment for the shop is now being installed by the boys of the Manual Arts department under direction of Mr. Richardson and it is a task of some magnitude. To begin with they had to make the foundations for the heavy cupola and upright furnace. A hole had to be cut in the roof through which the heavy upper structure could be thrust, then the cupola proper be lifted up and legs placed beneath it. The super-structure is now ready to be riveted into place and later it will be lined with fire brick. At one side is a pit where there will be hoisting machinery and a blower. It represents a large amount of careful work which would have been quite costly to the school had it been necessary to employ experts to do it.

DON'T FORGET "SAL"

"SAL" STANDS FOR SALVATION
ARMY, MOTHER OF THE WORLD—SHE NEEDS MONEY

Ezra F. Parker, chairman; Roy L. Kent, secretary, and Herman Nelson, treasurer of the Salvation Army Drive which is on this week, report that subscriptions are coming in as a result of the efficient canvass which has been made in some districts of the city, but that more workers are needed to collect more money. Up to last night something over $900 had been reported in money or pledges. Glendale's quota is $1300 and the Drive Committee plans to continue until that sum is realized or exceeded.

The Salvation Army is the one altruistic organization which has made good to such an extent that it has outlived criticism and commands the respect of all men regardless of race, nationality or religion. The soldiers of the Salvation Army give themselves and all that they have to the relief of suffering and the up-lift of fallen humanity. No class of war workers stands higher in the estimation of the American soldiers who give them all praise for disinterested, courageous service in the face of shot and shell.

Glendale's quota is small and the committee is confident every citizen will want to feel that he or she has a part in this fund. For that reason this strong reminder is being sent out that now is the time to help while the drive is on. Contributions can be turned in to the Elks' Club, which is backing the drive, to the office of Kent & Son, which is headquarters for the drive, to Chairman Parker, Treasurer Herman Nelson, or any of the canvassers appointed for the districts into which the town has been divided for canvass.

WEATHER FORECAST: Unsettled weather with showers tonight and Sunday.

Don't Forget to Set Clock One Hour Ahead When You Turn in Tonight

Washington, March 29.—Father Time with the flowing beard and his hour-glass will put on an extra burst of speed early tomorrow morning. He will keep up the pace for approximately six months.

Mr. General Public, to keep step, has only to follow the simple formula of pushing the hands of the clock one hour forward when he goes to bed tonight and thereby present himself with one hour of daylight.

Mr. G. P. then has only to forget about the violence done to the clock and get up as usual Sunday morning and go to church. He can slip off to his usual game of golf afterward, and in golf that extra hour of daylight will come in handy.

Congress didn't pass the daylight saving law for the benefit of golfers alone, however, but for the honest householder who wants to beat the high cost of living by digging and hoeing in his victory garden.

The National War Garden Commission, which fathered the daylight saving plan, figures about 10,000,000 people will rush from the office and the shop and dig in their gardens, and this, the commission hopes, will help break all records for food f. o. b. the kitchen.

The law will be in effect for 210 days. Two hundred and ten multiplied by 10,000,000 will give a staggering number of hours to be devoted to food production.

Outside the realm of figures the extra hour will do a number of things, although its effect will wear off in a couple of days.

Convivial gentlemen planning to get home at 2 a. m. may find themselves sneaking up the front steps as the cuckoo shrieks thrice.

Sleepy individuals, whose rest is customarily disturbed by the milkman holding converse with his faithful steed in the small hours of the morning, can comfortably reflect that the milkman will have to lose an extra hour of sleep or run the chance of being late at the watering trough.

to double line for the march to the auditorium above. Here they were seated across the front in the two center sections while the space back of them was nearly all filled with citizens eager to do them honor. Mayor Woodberry, after a brief address of welcome, asked all to stand. "America" was beautifully rendered by the Davis sisters, then the audience sang two verses to their accompaniment and that of the piano.

Rev. Scott then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Lewis T. Guild, in a breezy talk in which Dr. Guild was characterized as the "man with the golden mouth." The latter responded in like vein, chiding Rev. Scott for his extravagant words of praise, then launched into his address. It was one teeming with patriotism, praise of the American soldier and laudation of the Allied peoples, particularly the French, English, Belgians and Italians; contempt for the sniveling Hun, who displayed the most brutal arrogance until he saw defeat ahead, then gave up without a struggle when his fighting force was still intact. He evoked thunders of applause when he spoke of the heroic stand of Albert, the Democratic King of the Belgians, who, when the Germans demanded passage across the kingdom into France, said: "Ours is a country, not a thoroughfare; when he held up before us the 'gaunt, gray figure' of that dauntless churchman, Cardinal Mercier, who boldly defied the inhuman, church-desecrating Huns; and when he spoke of Theodore Roosevelt's great disappointment at being refused a part in the great war, yet he cheerfully sent his four sons into the fray, 'for the Roosevelt family was 1000 per cent. American.' The speaker then contrasted the Germans' willful destruction of French and Belgian cathedrals, 'those venerable piles of architecture which had been hundreds of years in building and which no Christian man, be he Protestant or Catholic, could enter without a feeling of awe and reverence,' with the forbearance of the Christian soldier, Gen. Allenby, who maneuvered for weeks to avoid injuring the Holy City by a bombardment and when he succeeded in forcing the Turks out, entered the gates not as a conqueror, but unarmed and as a lowly worshiper of the Christ. Words and space are inadequate to do justice to this wonderful address.

The Davis sisters played most beautifully "Perfect Day" and "Calling For Me" and then Prof. Kirchoffer, who had been brought over from Hollywood by auto took charge and 45 minutes of song was enjoyed. "Howdy Do" warmed everybody up, then followed "Old Folks at Home" and "My Bonnie." The leader had the whole audience sing, then the service boys, then different sections of the auditorium, then he'd have them hum the songs. It was mighty enjoyable throughout, just like a regular community sing. He wound up by having the Davis sisters play over the air of "Star Spangled Banner" and then accompany the entire audience in singing the first verse. And how that great auditorium rang with the melody. Then the Davis sisters played "Taps" on their bugles, and the audience was dismissed.

THE REAL THING

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF BATTLE PREPARATIONS AT CAMBRAI BY C. M. McLEOD

Frank N. Motsch of this city is in receipt of a wonderful descriptive letter from the war zone written by C. N. MacLeod, who enlisted with a Canadian regiment late in the year 1916, representing himself to be but 45—within the enlistment limit—when in reality he was 48 years of age. His gifts as a writer and his wonderful personal experiences combine to make the letter a historical treasure which will be appreciated by many soldiers and civilians of Glendale. It is of such length it will be published in installments. The writer is with the Fourth Division. Before the war he was an employee of the Globe Milling Company and made frequent trips to Glendale and other towns of the San Fernando Valley making sales to merchants. He therefore has many personal acquaintances here:

Village of Ransbeche, Belgium, Feb. 4, 1919, 18 Kilometers from Brussels.

Dear Frank:—

Just a few lines in retrospect of the Battle of Cambrai and especially of the Bourbon woods where our division, the 4th, was actively engaged: Bourbon Hill was the chief outwork of the City of Cambrai defence which was held by the Germans on the sloping hill by a or with a veritable arsenal of machine guns and cannon which overlooked and dominated the Canal Du Nord and where it seemed certain death and suicide to attempt to cross the canal. Our division along with the 1st and 3d was on the left center with the Bourbon Hill and canal in front of us, and there was only one place where there seemed any chance of crossing successfully the deep but not wide ditch and that was where it made a bottle neck between "Inchy and Mauvers" to the west of Bourbon Woods. Here it was that a pontoon bridge was thrown across the canal with as little noise as possible so as not to give Heine an inkling of what was on foot. This was done during the dark hours of the night of September 26th, with heavy rain falling and dark, ugly-looking clouds overhead. Everything was made ready for the great adventure which took place at the zero hour, 5 a. m., when our boys were to go over the top. This was part of a great plan of the doughboys on our right, who were busy between the Meuse and the Argonne Forest and who afterwards learned captured 5000 prisoners, four 8, 8.6 and 10 in. field, and 34 machine guns and a quantity of ammunition. Then farther to our right the French were busy cleaning up the Huns from whom they captured 7000 prisoners, 200 of whom were officers. On our extreme left the British were not idle and were getting things in shape to hammer Fritz's right wing and make it uncomfortable for him to hold his strongly entrenched position on the wooded slope of Bourbon Hill.

So at the zero hour, 5 o'clock, our barrage opened with miles and miles of every kind of cannon, from our right, our left, and directly in front. Just at that opportune moment our boys slipped across the canal before Heine could open up on them and cut them into ribbons and when he did open up our boys had happily passed his vicious barrage with slight casualties. But his machine guns were anything but harmless, and they exacted terrible toll before our boys finally obtained their objective on top of Bourbon Hill. The Hun was ousted from his dominating position and his hold on Cambrai made untenable. So he had to evacuate. You remember reading of Sir Julian Byng's great success on the same Cambrai position on Nov. 20, 1917, and ten days later retaken by a great German counter-attack; you remember how everybody wanted to retire Byng for his reverse. But such is always the fortune of war. Success one day and reverse the next.

Now I'd like to mention another hard nut our 4th division had to crack. That is, the key position to the taking of "Valenciennes" and our battalion, the 72d, had the honor of taking this difficult position across a "scheldt" or canal, and driving Heine out of Valenciennes on Nov. 1st with a remarkably small casualty list considering the strong position Fritz held across the canal and his flooding the surrounding country which made the crossing a very difficult one, indeed. In looking back it seems utter madness and suicidal to attempt to take Valenciennes, but the same tactics were adopted as at Cambrai. Lulling Heine into a sense of security and giving him the idea that his position was impregnable and to keep him waiting day after day as if we were afraid to attack. Each day's delay and inactivity gave Fritz the idea that his position was safe. But in the meantime there were busy nights. Night-working parties getting pontoons down as close to the canal as possible without permitting Fritz an inkling of what was being done. Although he was only 50 yards away, and you may imagine Fritz was all eyes and ears, and so when someone trod rather heavily upon a stick or kicked a tin can in the darkness he would open up with his machine gun and rifle fire in the general direction of the sound, whereupon everybody would be hugging old mother earth like a long lost sister and when his "Hunship" got over his scare we'd get busy again with the work on hand. Then our artillery was all this time moving up close to the canal and getting into previously picked positions. Of course, Fritz pasted us every day with every kind of shell that he had and he had quite an assortment from gas to wibbings and he knocked the town we were in, "Anzin," into fine dust—during all the daily bombardment we had to lay low in all the dry cellars we could find while we could hear all the houses around us being pulverized into fine bits. These shells have a wicked sound and one instinctively knows that they mean nothing but death. We were located in a wine cellar with a big water tank on top of the roof and one night old Fritz who knew about where we were located, sent over a number of "9 part twos" and knocked the whole roof off, together with the water tank which nearly drowned us all out away down in the cellar; as no lights were permitted there was a little commotion created flopping around in the water in the darkness. Then Heine's old bombing planes would hover over us both day and night and drop those wicked missiles of death whenever our machines were busy elsewhere. And I may say that these bombs are the most terrible weapons of all because they descend upon you without sound or warning until they land with an awful noise and explosion dealing death right and left. Believe me, they do tear and rip things up and make an awful mess of one when part of the bomb connects with one's anatomy. Every night we went for our rations Old Fritz used to shell the hell out of us and we simply had to take a chance and dodge them the best we could. This is a general condition throughout this big war.

Well, we had everything in readiness three days before the "Battle of Valenciennes" and the night before we jumped off we moved to a shell-torn house right close to the canal, so close, in fact, we could hear Heine talk and move about, so you can imagine how quiet we had to be in "moving in" so as to not give away our position. The roof of this house was shot away as also were all the windows, but the upper story floor was still intact, and one of our machine guns was placed up-stairs facing one of the Fritz machine gun positions that had given us quite a lot of trouble as did also some of their snipers. Another machine gun was placed down-stairs and two men were placed on guard, the rest of the men went down into the cellar as "Gerry" was sending over a lot of shells quite close to us and it was needless to have everyone blown into bits at one and the same time. This same plan was worked right along the canal and right opposite a nest of Hun machine guns; one of our big guns whose wheels were muffled by bags and carpet, was brought down to the canal to a blown-up foundry and when the show opened up blew the Heines together with their machine guns all to pieces.

Heinie, as I said, held strong natural defenses at Valenciennes aided by our refusal to direct shell fire upon the city itself so as not to destroy the many beautiful buildings therein. Did the Hun observe this desire to save the city from destruction when he was forced to retire? He certainly did not, but sent over every kind of shell he had and so destroyed every bit of property before he was compelled to quit by our able, long-range artillery.

Well, at the zero hour, 5 a. m., on the morning of Nov. 1st, our artillery opened up with a heavy barrage from every kind of cannon and gun it possessed, and, believe me, it was a dandy. Talk about noise,—it was an inferno and the big guns were fired with such clock-like regularity that they sounded like Lewis machine guns firing and gave Fritz such an assortment of shells including smoke shells as to cause him to think of green fields and pastures new across the Rhine. It was during this inferno of shot and shell and smoke that our boys crossed the scheldt or canal on the pontoons from the west to the east side, and Foxy Heine had all this area flooded which made it almost impassable, thus protecting his flank which enabled him to hold fast to the highland south of the city of which "Mount Haug" was the key. Great credit must be given to the Canadian Artillery for their remarkable accuracy which simply destroyed and devastated the enemy's defenses and enabled our boys to cross the canal without the loss of many lives. Sufficient Fritzies remained, however, to put up a stiff fight with their ever-ready deadly machine gun fire.

Bitter opposition developed at "Anlong Steel Works" and at "Marley" and in nearly all the prominent buildings in the city Heine had machine gun nests and as you can readily see it was extremely unhealthy in any part of the city, until every Hun had been driven out or surrendered. Happily our casualties were remarkably light considering the nature of the fighting. But the enemy dead exceeded anything seen since the height of the Battle of Cambrai. We were no sooner in the City of Valenciennes than Heine directed a withering fire upon us which played sad havoc with the city, and made it very unpleasant for us until we drove the enemy out of the city to "St. Sulne" and the Village of "Estreux," and pushed them along the Mons Road to the Village of "Onnaing."

That night Fritz shelled the deuce out of us with shrapnel and gas and bombed us at "St. Sulne" to a "fare ye well," but next morning we forced them to retire from Onnaing and Heine was given merry hell by our airplanes and long-range guns as was attested by their disabled limbers and ammunition wagons and Fritzies' dead and injured strewn all along the Mons Road as they retreated to Mons. So fast was the Huns' retirement that in less than one week he was driven all the way from Valenciennes to Mons, a distance of 32 miles. He was forced to retire from "Mons" in two days and on the 11th of Nov., 1918, a never-to-be-forgotten date in the history of the world war, the armistice was signed, but before that date we knew by Fritz's fighting he was "all in," down and out," although he could still put up a good "scrap." We were told in "Mons" that the soldiers were already revolting and that their officers found it necessary to discard their uniforms. So evidently things were in a bad way with the Hun—long before the 11th of November, and it is a good thing for Fritz that he threw up his hands when he did for your Uncle Sammy was just getting his second wind and about April, or May of 1919 they would have been in such shape as to have simply wiped the Huns out and taught the German people such a lesson that it will be many, many years before they ever attempt to conquer the world again.

They (the Huns) surely used the meanest direct methods ever seen or likely to be seen by a nation at war. They surely thought the kaiser and his Prussian advisers were right in 1914 in their stand in this war, for they as a nation supported him as no other monarch was ever supported, and now that they find that their wonderful and beloved kaiser cannot give them victory and divide the spoils of a trampled, down-trodden and bleeding world, they now see fit to revolt and concede that the kaiser's method was unfair, unjust and contrary to all international law, although four short years ago the whole German people thought it proper to honor the dastardly cowards who butchered innocent non-combatants, men, women and children, and even created special holidays so that the children could participate, bedecked in their Sunday best, with bands playing and banners waving. So it seems strange that what is not considered right in the eyes of the German people today should be thought quite proper and correct four years ago in 1914. We have had to fight not only the kaiser, but a national German idea.

Well, friends, to conclude this rambling and disjointed article of a bit of fighting as I saw it, I may say that, taking it all together, the battle of Valenciennes was short, sharp and decisive, and will rank as one of the most brilliant achievements of the war. It was some compensation for the boys to be welcomed by the remaining portion of the inhabitants who had emerged from their cellars, where they were huddled like sheep, to welcome their heroic rescuers or deliverers. And they were embraced, hugged and kissed by women, young and old. But the joke on the boys was to be kissed by the delighted old Frenchmen. Oh, yes, it was to laugh to see the lads wine and pull funny faces at each smack on the cheeks by the overjoyed and patriotic Frenchies.

Two of our gunners swarmed up the tower of the Hotel de Ville, tore down the hated German flag and hoisted the beloved Tri-Color. The brass wheels of the big tower clock had been removed by Germans, leaving only the big white face of the clock and the hour hands, and while the two gunners were up there, feeling in a playful mood, they seized both of the hour hands on the inside and revolved them at a rapid pace. The troops who were marching up the street, and who were not aware of the gunners' presence up in the clock tower, thought it a strange thing for a clock to act in such an eccentric manner, now running around the dial like a race horse and then jumping leisurely ten minutes at a time. Of course every one had a good laugh over it.

It was amusing but pathetic to see a pale face appear at a small opening in the curtains of one of the windows in Valenciennes, and observing that we were Canadians in kiltie uniforms, come running madly to the front door, slam it open wildly and yell hysterically to those who were hiding in the cellar: "Anglais, Anglais, Oo! La! La! Vive la Anglais." And the cry went from house to house, and up came the cellar inhabitants to peer timidly out of the front doors, and observing no sign of the Boche, they came boldly into the street and cheered us wildly and laughed by turns at our strange costume. Sometimes there would be two or three families in the same cellar, and it must have been anything but pleasant for the occupants; but there was general rejoicing everywhere. It was sad indeed to see the dead Heines lying all about the streets, but they were soon removed and the engineers began immediately to clean up the town and fill in all the vast holes made in the streets of Valenciennes by the Huns exploding mines, so that our artillery could be brought up and follow the enemy.

One amusing incident occurred as we were going through the town or city of Valenciennes. Some of the Fritzies prisoners who were passing through our lines to the rear raised the ire of an old Frenchman, who picked up a brick to throw at the Huns, but in his excitement threw his well-seasoned pipe instead, and then in voluble French cursed himself profusely and profoundly for his blunder, and before he could get his brick into action the Fritzies were well beyond his range of fire. Believe me, the Fritzies would have fared badly had this old Frenchman had a gun in his hands.

Another funny though gruesome incident was the ludicrous position of a dead Heine's body hanging out of a window by one leg, which had evidently been caught by the sudden release of the upper portion of the window, allowing it to fall upon his leg when one off our shells blew off the upper story of the building from which he had been sniping our boys. He looked just like a real honest-to-goodness scarecrow.

Heine sure put over a lot of gas shells at Valenciennes, and I swallowed a whole mouthful before I could get my mask on but the gas mask cannot be kept on when one gets a good sniff of mustard gas. The gas soon passed away, although my throat has been somewhat affected ever since. However, this condition will be entirely cured within a short time.

I am indeed sorry that we are loaded down with equipment and that we are unable to take along the much coveted souvenirs for our friends, so you will have to be satisfied with a letter containing a little news of some of our adventures and the misadventures that occur to us from time to time as we march on our weary but interesting way to the Rhine. Now that the war is over one can open up a bit and say just where we are and what, to some extent, we are doing. We are now in a small village called "Rausbeche," eighteen kilometers from Brussels, and only two miles from the famous battleground of Waterloo. As I sit and write I can see the colossal mound, surmounted by a lion, erected to commemorate the historic battle of 1815. This is another story.

With kindest regards, as ever yours, C. M. McLEOD.

WORLD NEWS

MARYSVILLE, Cal., March 29.—That the State Board of Horticulture is going after the fruit and vegetable pests is indicated by steps already taken to prevent the citrus white-fly getting a foothold in the citrus producing sections of the state, particularly in this section. The white-fly has been a menace in Marysville for several years and the commission has succeeded in eradicating it in the orange groves of Oroville, steps now being taken to eradicate the menace here.

DEL MONTE, Cal., March 29.—Polo season started today with many strings of fast ponies on the Del Monte field for the opening day of the two weeks' tournament which ends April 13th.

There will be from three to five teams in the competition over the two weeks. The W. H. Crocker cup will be at stake for the senior event.

while there will also be many trophies for junior matches.

With the opening of the season G. Maurice Keckscher, prominent Meadow Brook player, appeared on the field as a member of the Del Monte team. Keckscher has a string of fifteen crack polo ponies.

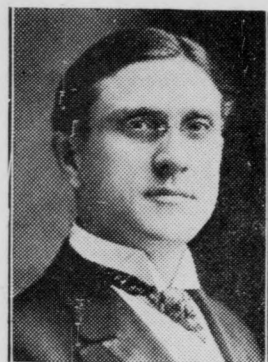

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 29.—Subjects of enemy countries during the world war can never darken the gates of the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club. A ruling that hereafter no such person will be allowed to even attend the club as a guest of a member much less join the organization was enthusiastically passed.

PEKING, Feb. 23. (By Mail).—A large number of influential intellectuals here have organized a League of Nations Society with the object of furthering the cause of the league of nations. The society advocates the formation of similar bodies everywhere in China.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clark have returned from a business and pleasure trip to Visalia and Bakersfield which they made by auto.

Mrs. Edna Irene Sawyer will move Monday into the small rear house she recently had built on her lot at 519 Oak. She has already leased the front house.

John M. Ray and family have moved into the house which has been remodeled for their occupancy at 205 North Louise. They have been in possession about a week and are quarantined on account of the illness of Miss Martha Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. West have been guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kent of Arden avenue the past week and leave today for their home in Yuma. Mrs. West was formerly known as Evelyn Kent and has a host of friends here.

Captain Shirley Olympus, who has seen strenuous service abroad, has been the guest this week of his brother, H. W. Olympus of 356 Arden avenue. In the captain's charge were sent to Denver some of the wounded members of his company. He is here on a furlough.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman returned Wednesday from an auto trip to Santa Barbara on which they were accompanied by their son Lyman and by Mrs. Charles Bosserman. They went especially for the benefit of their son, who has been ill, and are planning a longer trip to San Francisco in the near future on which they will be absent about a month.

The last letter Mrs. W. C. Bradley, 523 Oak St., received from her son Howard, stated that he had not yet left Cuba, but later a letter was received from Howard's commanding officer stating that he had had two urgent cable messages from Washington commanding Howard's immediate departure for home, so it is probable that he is now in the United States and will soon be home.

The many friends of Mrs. Pack of 130 South Adams street will be glad to know that she is slowly recovering from her serious illness and will soon be able to see her friends. The many kind notes and letters and beautiful flowers frequently sent to her are most thoroughly appreciated. As soon as she is able to travel she will go to her brother's home in Vancouver where it is hoped a complete recovery will be effected.

Lieut. Eugene Imler, who has been at Kingsburg, came home Friday after officiating as best man at the wedding of his college chum, Ensign Samuel Rasmussen, who lives in Kingsburg. It was a military wedding, both the groom and his attendant wearing their uniforms. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in San Francisco and the coast cities. The wedding present of Mr. Rasmussen, Sr., to his son was a 40-acre farm.

Mrs. F. A. Field of 209 North Kenwood is having the pleasure of entertaining for the coming week, two old friends from San Francisco, Misses Katherine and Elizabeth Culverwell, whom she has known since she was a little girl. They are great travelers and have frequently visited Glendale where they have accumulated quite a list of acquaintances. They are now en route for home after several months in San Diego. Mrs. J. W. Trau of Los Angeles will also be a guest in the Field home the coming week.

L. T. Rowley, Mesdames Worley, Myton and Rowley have been exceedingly busy packing and making ready for shipment the clothing already received in the Red Cross drive. About one thousand pounds are now boxed and ready for transportation. They greatly need additional help in this work, both men and women, and are calling for volunteers. Mr. Rowley estimates that more than a ton has come in and that the chapter will easily make its quota, 3000 pounds.

UNDERWRITTEN

Wouldn't it give you a feeling of added security and comfort to know that the integrity of your life insurance policies was guaranteed by all the assets of one of the large banking and trust companies of Los Angeles? And wouldn't that be worth paying something for?

Perhaps you do not know that every insurance contract in the Provident Life & Trust Co. of Philadelphia is protected by a stock capital of two million dollars and a surplus of six and a half millions, in addition to the surplus of an ordinary mutual company. But the net cost to the insured in the Provident has probably been lower than in any company in America.

According to "Best's" reports of the Provident, "The entire assets and surplus in the Insurance Department accumulate for the benefit of the policy-holders. NO DIVIDENDS ARE PAID STOCKHOLDERS FROM THE INSURANCE FUNDS."

I am proud to represent such a company.

THE AUTOMOBILE IS NO LONGER A LUXURY, BUT AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

Two decades have changed the automobile from a luxury, afforded only by the few, to a daily necessity, owned by millions of families. In the early days of the horseless carriage thousands of men amply able to own one refused to purchase for various reasons, such as fear of ridicule, apprehension regarding the safety of the new machine, and doubts of the reliability of the mechanism proving faithful to the trust imposed in it. It was humiliating to come back towed behind a team of horses or mules after starting out so gaily by gasoline power. Booth Tarkington, in one of his lengthier novels, very faithfully depicts the rise of the automobile from the spluttering, smoking, unreliable little horror that scared every horse it met, was execrated by every teamster and frequently went dead when far from home, to the high-powered, noiseless, reliable mechanism that propelled a huge shiny body through space at so delightful a pace. The youngsters who had greeted the first awkward attempts with derisive cries of "Git a hoss! Git a hoss!" were the young men who discarded the time-honored buggy for the perfected "joy wagon," to take their sweethearts to party and picnic.

The development of auto travel was greatly impeded by the uniform wretched condition of even the main highways. In the east the dirt road was never comfortable to travel over, even in mid-summer, for then the dust was so annoying, but for at least five months in the year roads were almost, if not quite, impassable for autos, and time was when there was the most bitter enmity between autoists and residents of rural communities, partly owing to prejudice on the part of the latter and disregard of property rights by the former. The farmer whose mettlesome team was scared into running away by the autoist who refused to stop his machine when he saw a catastrophe was impending was naturally disposed to get even at the first chance. In consequence, rural justices of the peace were not backward in inflicting heavy fines for even light breaches of the law. But as years passed and many farmers became owners of autos this feeling gradually disappeared and now all classes of autoists are working together for the common good. Farmers, especially those in the Middle and Eastern States, have found that the auto owner is their best friend, for his insistence has resulted in better and better roads, and now farmers can haul a heavy load of produce to market any day in the year on roads formerly impassable, but now hard and smooth. So in this enlightened day the owner of an auto is the rule instead of the exception as formerly. So as a promoter of good roads all over the country the automobile has served a worthy purpose. By reason of this happy result of years of patient effort on the part of the autoists, one may now cross the continent by three different routes over hard roads nearly all the way. Road building has been so stimulated in Central States that this year Illinois begins a five-year campaign along this line involving an expenditure of $60,000,000. Not only are two cross-continent highways to be improved, entirely across the state, but also some of the north and south lines, notably the "Dixie Highway" extending from Chicago to New Orleans, and in addition many county highways. It is not exaggerating to say that the past quarter of a century has seen road-building projects commenced that will total at least a billion dollars, and many of these are already completed. With smooth, hard roads radiating in every direction from nearly every city in the land, large or small, the auto is a necessity now just as the farm wagon and buggy were twenty years ago. For this reason sales agencies have multiplied until in beautiful Glendale, with no more than 13,000 people, standard autos of fifteen or more different makes, and all as perfect as mechanical genius and skilled workmanship can make them, are procurable at the same price the largest agency charges. When great daily papers devote many pages regularly in their Sunday editions exclusively to automobiles and accessories, it shows this to be an industry inferior to none in importance.

AN EVERY WEEK OCCURRENCE

Beginning with this issue of the Evening News, every Saturday, a page of the publication will be devoted to the interests of the local automobile industry. The dealers stand ready to co-operate with the publisher on this project of enterprise.

BUY CARS IN GLENDALE

Glendale has become an excellent automobile distributing point. Many standard cars are represented by reliable dealers in this city, and cars that are not represented by local dealers may be purchased through our own local auto agencies. "Buy in Glendale" should be the motto of every auto user.

KEEP YOUR AUTOMOBILE CLEAN

By keeping your automobile clean you will add to the neatness of its appearance and will also keep up its value. Learn how to polish your car.

SOMETHING TO SAY

The local automobile dealers of this city will have something worth while to say to our readers through these columns next week.

CAREFUL DRIVING

Automobile drivers as a rule are becoming quite sensible when it comes to using reason on the public highway. Very few drivers are so unfair as to ignore the rights of fellow drivers.

NOT LATER THAN 12 M. FRIDAY

All contributions to the automobile page must reach the office of the Evening News not later than 12 M. Friday of each week, and earlier than that whenever possible.

Buy your used cars through local dealers in whom you can place confidence.

The season for the intense use of automobiles is just at hand. Get a new car or have your old one rebuilt.

Instructions concerning caring for and driving automobiles will be given a prominent place on this page. The co-operation of dealers and automobile users is sought.

Why not have an automobile school of instruction in every city? Men and women are desirous of learning how to drive cars in a safe way, and they are anxious to observe rules of traffic if there is only a systematic way of teaching them the rules.

SAFETY FIRST RULES

The automobile is so great a source of pleasure to so many people that it is sad to contemplate how many terrible accidents occur in the pursuit of this kind of enjoyment, especially when it is known that even ordinary care would avert nearly all of them. The following simple rules should always be observed:

Never push your car to such high speed that it is beyond instant control.

Always slow down in approaching road crossings, especially when the view of the cross road is obstructed.

Always sound the horn when approaching a crossing that is considerably traveled over.

Never try to beat an electric car or railroad train over a crossing. The delay of one minute to your progress is better than the loss of your life or the possible maiming of your body by seeking to save that minute.

Always bring your car to a full stop on approaching a crossing that is in the least obscured by trees or houses.

Never disregard a crossing wig-wag signal or try to rush under a crossing gate as it descends.

Always look carefully ahead before seeking to pass a slower machine.

Be sure your head and tail lights are burning.

Do not drive along crowded city thoroughfares just to show your driving skill. Keep to the quieter streets as long as possible.

Watch for warning signs. When ordered to close your muffler, do so at once. When ordered to reduce speed to 25, 20, 15 or 10 miles an hour, heed the sign immediately.

When approaching a sharp curve, slow down to a minimum speed, especially if you are on the inside of the curve.

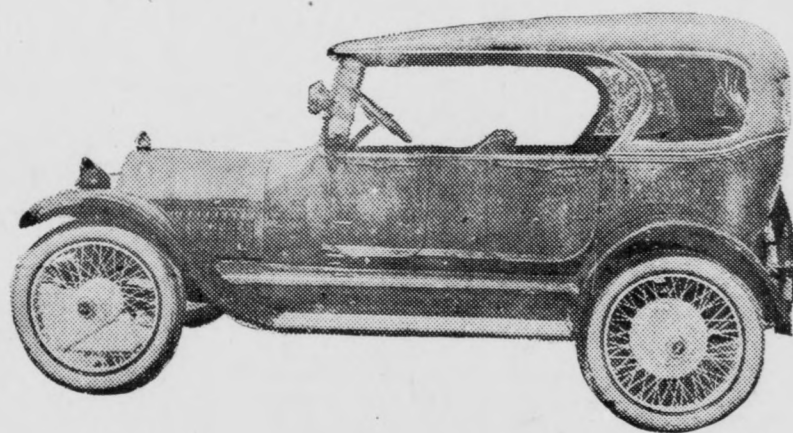

Never boast of the high speed your car is in the habit of making. Maybe the speed cop will overhear and "lay" for you.

Never try to run away from the speed cop. He is in the right and you in the wrong, so if any accident occurs and he is injured or killed, you will have to suffer the consequences.

Never desert the right side of the road because the fellow coming toward you is about to cross over to your side. Stay on the right side, then if an accident occurs you will not be to blame.

Time was when the New York citizen traveling to Washington took leave of his family as if he feared never to see them again. Time was when the traveler from New York to San Francisco and return counted on a month or more to make the trip. Time was when an auto trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco was considered impossible. Now cross-continent trips are made in a few days and the journey back east by auto is the common thing.
